

WORDSEARCH WINNER

Congratulations to Dora Marks of Brookland Hill, winner of the winter wordsearch competition on 20th century female writers. Dora has lived in Brookland Hill since 1962. She arrived in London from Johannesburg in 1958 to study singing, but did not return to South Africa after meeting her husband Bernard. They chose to live on the Suburb as she loved the variety of houses with a cohesive feel, and she felt very much at home. Her major love is still music and she enjoys theatre, and concerts at the Wigmore Hall. She reads mainly biography and autobiography and enjoys quick crosswords. She and her husband spend time walking on the Heath and in the London parks. She loves being at home when she is not working part time for her husband.

Dora has two sons, one living locally and one in Washington. Over the years, she has travelled to Europe and Russia, and visited family in the USA. One of her goals is to visit Athens and Rome.

With her Book Token, she will buy "Konin" by Theo Richmond, and the Yehudi Menuhin autobiography.

Jones the Opera

Have you heard of Tom Jones? We do not mean the Welsh singer, we mean Tom Jones, the comic opera founded upon Henry Fielding's novel and beautifully set to music by Edward German.

After seeing the film, reading the script and listening to the music, Manor House Hospital Operatic Society decided it was definitely what they wanted for their next major production running from 14 to 18 May 1996 inclusive at the Institute at 7.30 pm.

Under the musical direction of David Mackie, former Chorus Master and Associate Conductor of the old D'Oyly Carte Opera Company from 1976 until its closure in 1982 and the professionalism of a Shane Collins production, the show promises to be a refreshing change.

Voice-wise we have a superb cast which augurs well for a very enjoyable evening. Why not book a seat and judge for yourself? We are sure Tom Jones will then feature in your list of forthcoming shows.

Theatre Club Bookings

The Theatre Club has started planning its summer programme, but unfortunately it cannot be finalised in time for this issue Suburb News. A copy deadline of 15 March is too early for theatres to book for June and July. However, we have planned:

Skylight at Wyndhams for 23 April

Twelve Angry Men for 23 May
Beethoven's Tenth by Peter Ustinov at Watford for June

Birthday Suite by Robin Howdon at the Old Mill Theatre, Sonning for July. This visit will be a whole day trip as a Saturday matinee.

In August we are booking an hour-long tour of the National Theatre.

Details of all these outings will be sent to members, with booking forms. Prices vary from about £15 to about £20 and this includes the theatre ticket and coach fare. If you are not yet a member, and wish to join, please contact Ruth Gumb on 455 6490.

Hospice Commons Visit

Despite great pressure of work, John Marshall MP, who is a strong supporter of the Hospice, together with his Personal Assistant, Rosie Daniels, welcomed the group of 60 Hospice supporters (which included several Hospice staff and volunteers) with charm and wit, to the Jubilee Room at the House of Commons.

After a delicious buffet supper the guests were treated to a full tour of the House with time to hear a debate and witness a division and vote, before rejoining the coach to return to Hampstead Garden Suburb.

WORDSEARCH ANSWERS

20th Century British Female Writers

The names of the fifteen writers hidden in the box were:

Bawden	Cookson	James	Spark
Brookner	Cooper	Lively	Taylor Bradford
Byatt	Drabble	Mortimer	Trollope
Cartland	Huxley	Rendell

This was a very well subscribed wordsearch with not many correct entries. Several names were in the box unintentionally. The most obvious was Parker, but entrants included such names as Dell, Jay, Lock, Rook, Bradford, Huron, Taylor (Elizabeth). Mrs Chamberlaine, Miss Ward, Mr Abbot and Mrs Lowe included Dorothy Parker who does not qualify as a British author as she was born in New York. I appreciated the very old and interesting Canadian Pacific Cruise postcard from Mrs Grainger!

Theatre at Brookland Junior

Theatre Express is a children's musical theatre company, celebrating its second anniversary. It is based at Brookland Junior School during term-time. Five-day workshops are held during Easter and Summer holidays at Martin School, East Finchley. The age group is 7-12 years, attracting children from local schools.

Over forty children participate. They make props and scenery for all productions. For the 'Wild West' show, last August, they created a six-foot Totem Pole, made wampum beads, elaborate feather head-dresses and put on patterned war paint. At the Easter Workshop, 9-13 April, tie and dye T-shirts and bead making were the order of the day for the 'Flower Power' theme!

Celebrity guests are regularly invited to Theatre Express. These include: Ron Freeman, Wig and Make-up Master for the Royal Opera House, Stella Tanner and the playwright and actress, Sara Mason.

Theatre Express prides itself on high standards of supervision. Experienced and qualified staff ensure the children are well supervised at all times. For further information, contact: Helen Connor, telephone: 365 3130.
