The Marriage of Figaro

Hampstead Garden Opera, for their tenth production at the Institute Theatre in March, staged Mozart's The Marriage of Figaro, with which they began life in 1991. The theatre was full to capacity for both Saturday performances.

The Ham and High singled out for praise Suburb resident Colin Jaque - "a splendid characterisation as the supercilious Dr Bartolo" Craig Turpie, "as Figaro, was warm-toned and had just the right self-assurance for the role". "But in a league of her own was Lindsay Bramley, as Marcellina. Very much the fruity mezzo, her intonation and diction were exemplary. She ought to be singing for English National Opera and nurtured eventually into one of their principals."

The principal roles were double cast with Paul van Gastel and Craig Turpie as Figaro, Jean Aird and Maria Carranza as Susanna, John Dawswell and David Rose as Count Almaviva, Paola Quaglia and Helen Gilheany as Countess Almaviva and Dawn Allan and Vivienne Trenner as Cherubino. Production was by Angela Dixon and the performances with the Crowndale Orchestra were conducted by Roy Budden.

The group's next opera at the Institute will be Johann Strauss's Die Fledermaus (23-26 October 1996) followed by Verdi's Aida in March 1997.

Singers interested in joining the company are invited to contact Roy Budden on 346 2080.

12km walk for Hospice

Sunshine and spring flowers greeted the sponsored North London Hospice supporters as they made their way for 7.5 miles through the London parks from East Finchley to Westminster.

The Mayor of Barnet, Cllr Suzette Palmer, and her escort Monroe Palmer cut the ribbon as John Marshall MP, a strong Hospice supporter, and North West Support Group Chairman, Dr Chris Donovan, headed the 130 strong band of walkers under the leadership of Harold Kartton of the Connoisseurs Walking Club.

The first check-point on Haverstock Hill, Belsize Park, brought the Mayor of Camden, Dr Deshmukh, to greet and chat with the walkers. Lunch-time was at Regents Park with sandwiches and drinks for all. The walk ended at Storeys Gate, Westminster, with many congratulations from John Marshall and Health Minister John Bowis MP.
