Fellowship House, 136a Willifield Way.

8pm MUSIC FOR THE MILLENNIUM concert sponsored by the Residents Association and Ellis & Co. featuring 'Suburb Reeds', a woodwind and piano Recital. The concert will feature the oboist, Neil Black, who himself is a Suburb resident. Neil is renowned for his "ravishingly malleable flow of tone", as one national critic has described the beauty of his playing. And the Financial Times once wrote: "There aren't many oboe concertos and one would be happy to hear Black playing any and all of them". His oboist wife and former pupil, Janice Knight, will join him, as will also Thea King, one of Britain's leading clarinetists. Their concert, entitled 'Suburb Reeds', will give us a rare opportunity of hearing no less than three members of the oboe family - the oboe, the cor anglais and the oboe d'amore. We can also witness Thea King's artistry and versatility on the clarinet and as a piano accompanist. Tickets from the Institute 8455 9951, Garden Suburb Gallery or at the door. £9 (cons £7) in aid of the Henrietta Barnett Fund. Free Church, North Square.
